OSI Duisburg Invests in Future Employees

Duisburg, Germany, September 1, 2016 – In August 2016, twelve young trainees commenced their apprenticeship with OSI Duisburg across six different job profiles.

Training young people from the local region is not new to OSI Duisburg; however, it is becoming more and more important in order to make sure the company will have qualified employees in the future. Because of this, the number of job profiles, as well as the number of trainees, is constantly rising. As a result, it is getting more difficult to find skilled trainees who meet OSI requirements.

To raise awareness of OSI as an employer in Germany, several measures have been taken. These include taking part in an apprenticeship fair and hosting job consultants from the Federal Employment Office at the Duisburg plant. Furthermore, a journalist was invited to visit the plant, which resulted in an article being written about OSI that was published in the local newspapers and widely spread around the area.
