OSI Spain Provides Employees a Range of Emergency Training

Toledo, Spain, March 8, 2016 – On March 7-8, 2016, OSI Spain organized a selection of training sessions covering a range of topics:

- Good Manufacturing Practices
- Food handling and food defense
- Prevention of occupational hazards
- Ergonomic hazards
- Theoretical and practical training in firefighting
- First aid
- Emergency and evacuation plan
- Cleaning and disinfection techniques

Employees had the opportunity to put into practice everything they had learned during the training sessions through first aid workshops and fire drills.

The aim of these courses was to raise awareness about the importance of risk prevention, to motivate employees to actively seek prevention and to invite them to participate in the activities related to their health and safety at work.
